STEAMER SINKS IN MISSISSIPPI

City of Saltillo Goes Down Near Glen Park.

THIRTEEN PERSONS DROWNED IN RIVER

First Thought That Only Four Are Lost.

Search During the Night Reveals Many Dead—Most of Steamer's Crew Escape—Five Women Passengers Are Among the Dead. The Satillo Strikes a Rock, Turns Turtle and Founders Near Shore.

St. Louis, Mo., May 12.—Thirteen persons were drowned when the steamer, City of Saltillo, sank in the Mississippi river near Glen Park, twenty-four miles from St. Louis last night. It was first thought that not more than four or five had drowned, but a search during the night and early today revealed that thirteen were dead. Most of the crew escaped

Among the dead are five women passengers and eight men.

The Saltillo, bound from St. Louis to Tennessee river points, struck a rock, turned turtle, and foundered within reach of the shore at Glen Park.

Many of the passengers were pleasure seekers from Nashville, Tennessee.

The List of Dead.

Mrs. Isaac T. Rhea, Nashville, Tennessee, wife of the president of the Tennessee River Packet company, owners of the ill-fated vessel.

Miss Annie Rhea, daughter of Mrs. Rhea.

S. C. Baker, first clerk of the steamer, St. Louis.

Mrs. Joseph Harris, Nashville.

Mrs. Archie Patterson, Nashville, returning from a visit with parents at Chester, Illinois.

Archie Patterson, Jr., five, son of Mrs. Patterson.

William J. Pickett, traveling salesman, St. Louis.

Fowler Post, clerk on boat. St. Louis.

Miss Lena Wall, Nashville, member Rhea party.

Head porter, name not known.

A cabin boy.

Two roustabouts.

Precarious Voyage.

The City of Saltillo, Captain Perry Crane, left St. Louis at 7 o'clock last night. On board were twenty-seven passengers and a crew of twenty-three men. The voyage was considered precarious because of the high water and the great amount of driftwood.

Shortly before reaching Spring Park, the boat began to show a strong shoreward drift. The draw was fought by the pilot but she continued to drift. Finally the engines were reversed but the Saltillo continued to swing in shore, despite the reversed engines and the rudder, thrown hard over.

As the boat swung toward the shore with increasing force, she turned completely around. Then came the noise of tearing timber and the shrieks of the crew and passengers, and the vessel struck a rock almost within reach of land. She careened quickly and began to sink rapidly in twenty feet of water. Many of the passengers were awakened by water rushing in their doors. The boat was so close to the shore that an attempt was made to throw out a gangplank. Many passengers jumped overboard. Some were rescued. Others never came up.

Struggle With Gangplank.

As the men struggled with the gangplank, it became entangled in the trees and in spite of the efforts to restrain the panic-stricken passengers, many rushed out on the plank which was elevated at an angle of fifty degrees.

Mrs. William Hawkes, one of the survivors of Nashville, Tennessee, in telling of this today, said:

"The crew reassured us and told us that if we would take our time all might be saved. Otherwise, they said, we would all drown. I did not go out on the gangplank, but many of the women did. Among them was Mrs. Patterson, clasping her two-year-old child in her arms. So far as I can remember all of the women now known to be drowned were on the gangplank. Mrs. Patterson went down with her son in her arms.

"All the time the boat had been steadily sinking. Suddenly it careened and seemed to almost turn turtle. The women were on the gangplank then. It gave a twist and all were thrown in the water and drawn down in the swirling current. Of the women on the plank, Miss Louise Rhea and Miss Frances Harris were the only ones to get ashore alive. These two were of our party. After the boat settled down, many of us were rescued by members of the crew and some caught pieces of wreckage and driftwood to support them."

FAIRBANKS IS OFFERED POST

May Become Ambassador at Court of St. James.

Washington, May 12.—Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks of Indianapolis may become ambassador at the court of St. James, succeeding Whitelaw Reid.

It is reported that President Taft has written a letter to Fairbanks unofficially offering him the post. Since Taft's inauguration there has been scarcely any doubt that he would displace Reid.

Fairbanks has been offered several posts in the diplomatic service by Taft, including the ministry of China and a delegateship to the Pan American conference, each of which he declined.

TRAIN IS HELD UP BY BANDITS

They Rob Passengers, but Not the Express Car.

A DEPUTY SHERIFF SURRENDERS GUN

Robbers Are Young Men, Apparently Cowboys.

One Stands in Door of Coach and Covers Passengers with Gun While the Other Goes Through the Car—They Take All the Money from Women—Large Posse Starts After Bandits.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 12. All passengers, to the number of 17, together with the conductor and brakeman, on a Southern Pacific train were held up by two men who boarded the train with the passengers at Maricopa. They went first to the smoking car, where one robber stood in the door and covered the passengers while the other went through the car. A deputy sheriff from Globe, conveying two prisoners to the penitentiary, had his gun taken, and all the guns of the other passengers were taken. The robbers then went to the rear coach, containing mostly women and took all their money.

The robbers were young men apparently cowboys, and did not molest the express car. The sheriff from Tucson was in Phoenix and he, with the sheriff from Phoenix and a large posse with horses left Phoenix an hour later on a special train for the scene of the robbery which is on an Indian reservation.

FLORIDA GLIDES INTO THE WATER

Most Massive Big-Gun Ship in the World

CHRISTENED BY MISS FLEMING

Great Throng Fills the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Ships and Buildings Are Elaborately Decorated—Thousands of Jackies Line the Docks—Great Platforms Built To Accommodate Invited Guests—Vice President Sherman Attends Launching.

New York, May 12.—America's greatest battleship, the super-Dreadnaught Florida, most massive all-big-gun ship in the world, was launched at the government navy yard in Brooklyn at 11.28 o'clock this morning.

As the signal "cut off" sent the big vessel down the ways into the water of Wallabout bay, Miss Elizabeth Legere Fleming, daughter of a former governor of Florida, crashed a bottle of wine against the prow and shouted "I christen thee 'Florida.'"

A great throng filled the navy yard, while the entire water front on the New York side was jammed. All craft had been barred from that portion of the East river, for the great wave of water that was cast up by the 21,000 ton battleship would have sunk an ordinary vessel.

The navy yard was in gala attire. Ships and buildings were elaborately decorated while bands from the battleship fleet in the harbor were stationed about the yard. Thousands of Jackies lined the docks and ships in the vicinity, while hundreds of naval officers in full dress uniform added brilliancy to the scene. Fully thirty thousand people were in the navy yard to witness the launching.

Distinguished Guests.

Two great platforms had been erected at the bow of the vessel to accommodate the 500 invited guests. On the principal stand were Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer, Assistant Secretary Winthrop, Albert W. Gilchrist, Governor of Florida, with his staff; Governor Hughes and his staff, Admiral George Dewey and Rear Admirals Evans, Sperry, Schroeder, Wainwright, Potter and Leutze.

Vice President Sherman was present at the launching as the official representative of President Taft.

Neither the Neptune nor the Colossus, prides of the British navy, equals the latest sea fighter. The Florida can fire a broadside of five tons of metal. She can train every one of her ten twelve-inch guns on either broadside, and hurl twice as much metal as the entire fleet Admiral Dewey took into Manila bay.

The Florida will be twenty-one feet longer, 3,500 tons heavier and with a battery twenty-four per cent. stronger than the giant Bellerophon, of the British navy. The great Connecticut, for years the queen of the American navy, will seem small alongside her. The Florida will be heavier by 6,000 tons than the Connecticut, or nearly the entire displacement of the ill-fated Maine.

Florida 521 Feet Long.

The Florida is 521 feet long—too long for the navy yard dock, and for that reason her propellor, rudder and propellor shaft, together with a large part of her armor, had to be installed before she took to the water. She has eighty-five feet beam, and will be as steady as a fort. Her displacement is 21,825 tons. She is said to develop 28,000 horsepower, which will drive her along at the rate of twenty-one knots an hour. The supplies of ammunition will be brought up by electrire hoists direct from the magazine below the turrets. The entire handling of the big guns will be done with power from the electrically driven motors. Her great guns will be mounted in five turrets, two forward, two aft and one amidship, so that all her guns may be trained either to starboard or port, a distinct advantage over any other vessel.

The Florida will carry sufficiently thick armor to make her proof against torpedo boat attack, but will have strong bulkheads as additional safe guard against torpedoes and mines. The main armor belt is eight feet wide, of an average thickness of ten inches, with another belt above of nine inches in thickness, and a high casement armor to protect the secondary batteries and the funnel bases. Each barbette has been made from four to twelve inches in thickness to protect the machinery which handles the guns in the turrets above.

Uncle Sam's Workmen.

The engines later to be installed in the Florida will consist of ten turbines of the Parsons type, six go ahead and four astern turbins. They will be driven by steam generated in twelve water tube boilers with furnaces that have been constructed to burn either coal or oil.

The launching of the Florida demonstrated that Uncle Sam's workmen are competent to build his Dreadnaughts, the entire vessel having been constructed in the Brooklyn navy yard, under the direction of naval constructors Baxter and Grausbeck.

The Florida was sixty-eight per cent. completed when launched, remarkable, but due to the fact that the drydocks are too small to receive her. She now weighs actually 9,000 tons.

A remarkable difference between the Florida and the Connecticut, once pride of the American navy, may be seen from the following comparison:

The Two Vessels.

Connecticut—Length, 450 feet; displacement, 16,000 tons; horsepower, 16,500; speed nineteen knots; armament, four twelve-inch guns in two turrets, eight eight-inch, twelve seven-inch, twenty three-inch rapid-fire guns, four one-pounders, two three-inch field guns and four thirty-caliber automatic riot guns; bunker capacity, 2,325 tons; torpedo tubes, four submerged twenty-one inch diameter; complement, forty-one officers and 840 men.

Florida—Length 521 feet; displacement 21,825 tons; horsepower, 28,000 speed, twenty-one knots; armament, ten twelve-inch guns in five turrets, sixteen five-inch rapid fire on broadside, four three-pounder semi-automatic, two one-pounder semi-automatic, two three-inch field guns and two thirty-caliber automatic riot guns; bunker capacity, 2,500 tons; torpedo tubes, two submerged twenty-one-inch diameter; complement, sixty officers and 840 men.

Until the launching of the Florida, the Connecticut was regarded as one of the best vessels in the American navy. Compared with the latest, she becomes a "has been."

BEVERIDGE IS MADE TARGET

Of Plot To Overthrow Him, Says Headrick.

LATTER EXPLODES POLITICAL BOMB

Remark of a Woman Gives the Plot Away.

Republican Candidate for Prosecutor of Marion County Claims That Mayor Shank, of Indianapolis, Is Head of the Movement To Defeat the Senator for Reelection—Mayor's Lieutenants Refuse To Talk.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—In the absence of Mayor Lew Shank, his lieutenants refuse to discuss the alleged plot to defeat United States Senator Beveridge for reelection as related by W. D Headrick, Republican candidate for prosecutor.

At a Republican ward gathering, Headrick exploded his bomb by charging openly that Joseph B. Kealing, corporation counsel, and former United States district attorney, with the Shank administration, is conducting a well-guarded plot to overthrow the senior Indiana senator.

Headrick declared Mayor Shank had tried to induce him to withdraw his candidacy and that Shank's lieutenants have succeeded in keeping some Republicans from meetings addressed by Headrick.

Headrick added that the movement in the Republican ranks to knife Beveridge extends to other congressional districts, and that as in Marion county, efforts will be made to elect a legislative delegation hostile to the interests of Senator Beveridge.

A remark from Mrs. Shank, wife of the mayor, Hedrick said, revealed to him the anti-Beveridge plot. Mrs Shank says she does not understand Headrick's ground for breaking with the mayor, the families having been intimate. Mayor Shank is in Mobile, Alabama.

GEORGE FAVORS CHANGE IN OATH

New British King Does Not Fancy Its Text.

ANTI-CATHOLIC CLAUSE HELD OBJECTIONABLE

In View of Many Subjects Who Are Catholics.

Anti-Catholics Are Opposing Any Change and Are Importuning Parliament Members Not To Carry Out Certain Suggestions—John Redmond Aids New Monarch in His Stand on the Question.

London, May 11.—King George's first row, in the opinion today of the best-informed church men and politicians of England, will result from the objection to the anti-Catholic character of the oath that he will be required to take when he opens his first parliament. Already the anti-Catholics, who form an overwhelming part of the population, are opposing any change in the oath and are importuning members of parliament not to carry out the suggestion that a few of the "offending sentences" be modified.

It is admitted that a majority of the members of parliament favor a change in the oath, which question, in fact, has been under consideration since the eucharistic congress in London. Owing to the tremendous popular sentiment against a change, however, parliament has deferred action.

Brings Issue to Head.

Now King George has brought the issue to a head. The declaration to which King George is opposed reads:

"I do solemn'y and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I do believe that in the sacrament of the Lord's supper there is not any transubstantiation of the elements of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ, at or after the consecration thereof, by any person; and that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary or any other saint, and the sacrifice of the mass as now used in the church of Rome, are superstitious and idolatrous; and I do solemnly, in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I do make this declaration, and every part thereof, in the plain, ordinary sense of words as commonly understood by English Protestants, without any evasion, equivocation or mental reservation whatever, and without any dispensation already granted me for this purpose by the Pope or any other authority or person whatsoever."

Redmond Aids King.

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, and the Duke of Norfolk, the foremost Catholic in England, are lending their aid to the new king in his effort to have this declaration modified. The proposals suggested are to change the words "are superstitious and idolatrous," to "are contrary to my belief," and to omit the reference to the Pope. King George has not indicated whether such changes will meet his opposition to the declaration. The Orangemen and Protestant extremists say they will fight even these changes.

Whatever the outcome of the discussion, it is believed that George has started a religious controversy that will grow until it creates a war between Catholics and Protestants.

There is the liveliest speculation today as to whether King George will follow the immemorial custom of English monarchs by aligning himself actively with the Free Masons, an order in which he is not even yet initiated.

His father was one of the leading Masons of the world and nearly all the other English rulers have stood at the head of the order in England.

King's First Message.

London, May 11.—King George's first message to parliament, announcing his father's death and expressing the loss that both he and the nation had sustained through it, was read in the house of commons and in the house of lords today, the members standing with bared heads.

Immediately after the reading, both houses adopted by acclamation messages of condolence to be sent to the king and the queen mother.

Deputy Speaker Emmott read the king's message. In the commons and the lord chancellor in the house of lords. As read in the commons it was as follows:

"The king knows the house of commons shares in the profound, deep sorrow that has befallen his majesty through the death of his father, the late king, and that the house entertains a true sense of the loss his majesty and the nation have sustained. King Edward's care for the welfare of his people, his skill and prudent guidance of the nation's affairs; his unwavering devotion to public duty during his illustrious reign; his simple courage under pain, will be long held in honor by his subjects both at home and beyond the the seas."

The messages of condolence from the two houses are identical in form and refer to the great work that the late ruler did in maintaining friendly foreign relations. The messages congratulate the new king and promise him the allegiance of the members of parliament.

POPE PIUS HAS ISSUED NEW EDICT

Enrollment in the Scapular Need Not Interfere with Dress.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 12.—Catholic women who wish to wear decollete gowns need not allow their enrollment in the Scapular to interfere. Pope Pius has issued an edict that in such cases it is not necessary for the women to wear the scapulars around their necks.

Pope Pius' edict is contained in a letter to Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee which will be read in all Milwaukee churches Sunday. The letter in part says:

"The holy father, always interested in the affairs of his children, is desirous that Catholic women who take an active part in social affairs be not restricted in the dress proper for social requirements by any open insignia of their faith, and therefore dispenses them from wearing their scapulars where they will be conspicuous or doing away with them altogether if they so desire."

TWELVE ARE INJURED IN ALLIANCE WRECK

Mail Car and Two Coaches Go Over Embankment.

Alliance, O., May 12.—Twelve persons were badly hurt when train No. 307, of the Pennsylvania railroad, from Pittsburg to Cleveland, jumped the track near Kensington, Ohio, this morning. A mail car, baggage car and two coaches rolled down a twenty-foot embankment. The most seriously injured are, Engineer S. J. Myers, of Cleveland; Express Messenger Dittmer, of Canton; Fireman S. C. Kurtz, Cleveland, crushed; W. Joyce, fifty, Cleveland, cut about head, internally injured, and W. Denison, sixty-three, Summitville, skull fractured and other injuries.

It is said that the wreck was caused by the engineer applying the brakes too suddenly in order to get his train under control to stop at Kensington.

OVER HUNDRED MAY BE DEAD

Through an Explosion in Wellington Coal Mine.

MEN ARE ENTOMBED IN THE GALLERIES

Rescuers Have To Abandon Attempt To Enter

Mouth of the Mine Is Wrecked and Flames Drive People Back—Families of Doomed Men Crowd About the Shaft—Cause of Explosion Is Not Yet Determined—The Mine Runs Out Under the Sea.

Whitehaen, England, May 12.—One hundred and thirty-seven miners in the Wellington coal mine either have been killed by an explosion in the mine today or are facing death from flames now sweeping through the galleries where they are entombed.

Rescue parties, after making Herculean efforts to enter the mine, the mouth of which was wrecked by the explosion, abandoned the attempt this afternoon, owing to the flames. Hope of rescuing any of the imprisoned men has been given up.

The families of the doomed men are crowded about the mine shaft. Many of the women have, in their frenzy, tried to enter the mine and would have sacrificed their lives but for the presence of police, who are holding the frantic crowd in check.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined. The mine, which runs under the sea for four miles, is owned by the Earl of Lonsdale.

JOHN I. COURT HIT BY AN ERIE TRAIN

While Walking Along the Big Four Track,

AT UNION STATION TUESDAY EVENING

Knocked to the Platform and Badly Bruised but It Is Thought That He Escapes Internal Injuries—Is Taken to the Sawyer Sanitorium Is Resting Easy

While walking casually along close to the Big Four tracks at the union station entirely oblivious to the danger of his position John I Court aged sixty two years a well-known stockman of Newman was struck by Erie passenger train No . . . as it pulled into the station . . . o clock Tuesday evening and was quite seriously injured

Court had been in the city look ing after business and at the sta tion had been wandering about talk ing with acquaintances Erie pas senger train No 1 on the Cincin nati division had just arrived and taken the middle track at the sta tion while a train on the Chicago di vision was standing on the tracks beyond it As train No . . . ar rived it was necessary to bring it into the station over the Big Four tracks In the confusion of the trains and the interchange of the passengers Court walked along the tracks near the Union Depot hotel and had turned as if to cross the tracks to go to the hotel when the oncoming passenger was upon him striking him violently on the back overturning him and hurling him backward on the platform

"We thought he was killed" said one of the employes of the Erie at the station when seen regarding the matter Wednesday "We shouted and yelled with all our might but we simply could not seem to attract his attention and before we could do anything to get him away from the tracks he had turned and was going right in front of it There was so much noise he could not have heard very well"

From the statements of those who witnessed the accident who were many it appears that Court was ab sorbed in thought as he walked along the tracks and thinking that he would go to the hotel had made the attempt to cross the tracks not knowing that the train was coming in When the train struck him he was hurled to one side falling against the pilot was picked up and overturned falling backward to one side on the platform Had the train not been advancing at a very slow rate being about to stop Court would probably have been instantly killed

Trainmen and others picked up the injured man and after consid erable delay he was taken from be tween the trains and given atten tion The Hess & Markert ambu lance was hastily summoned and he was transferred to the Dr C . . . Sawyer Sanitorium Here it was found that two large contusion one over the right eye and the other over th right ear were suffered together with a very severe bruise on th . . . hip The injuries al though very painful are not consid ered of a serious nature by the at tending surgeon When train . . . red to the ambulance at the station Court . . . MISREPRESENTED ARE THE FACTS IN CASE

Story Told by Thomas Pryor Not Wholly True

PRYOR IS NOT LEFT PENNILESS BY SON

Son Gives His Father $200, Which the Latter Deposits with a Friend—Son Fined for Not Taking Care of Father as He Should and Given a Workhouse Sentence

After causing his son's arrest on a charge of failing to care for him Thomas Pryor aged seventy three years confessed to Justice Charles E Gompf Wednesday that he had misrepresented the facts.

April 12 last an affidavit charging Henry B Pryor with deserting his aged father was filed in Justice Gompf's court by the Marion County Humane society. The old man had related a pitiful tale. He said that his son induced him to sell his house and lot on north State street then took all the money and went away leaving him penniless.

The aged man's story aroused much sympathy and he was taken to the Marion county infirmary.

Tuesday night the son came here from Chillicothe and gave himself up. He said he had rented a farm in Ross county after leaving Marion and denied that he had left his father penniless. He declared that he had kept him for years and that his father agreed to the sale of the property. "I gave him $200" said the son. "My bill against him for his keep was $1 [illegible]."

The records of the county recorder's office show that the property was sold for a consideration of $1 100.

The aged Mr Pryor was brought to the justice's office from the infirmary Wednesday. He at first denied that his son had given him any money but later privately confessed to the justice that he had received $200 which he turned over to a man at Green Camp to keep for him. He displayed a receipt for the amount.

The son however was not excused from prosecution as it was shown that he had left his aged father with no one to care for him. He was fined five dollars and costs and sentenced to serve ninety days in the Columbus workhouse. The sentence was suspended on his promise to pay eight dollars to Superintendent Samuel Rader of the infirmary for the care of his father. The younger Pryor paid the fine and costs.

DEPUTY TREASURER'S FRIENDS ARE BUSY

Glenn Jones Is Strong Candidate for Nomination

PUTTING UP HARD FIGHT IN THE MAY PRIMARIES

Notwithstanding the Fact His Duties Keep Him Confined to Treasurer's Office the Greater Part of His Time His Campaign Is a Lively One—What Friends Say of Him

E G Jones deputy county treasurer and a candidate for the nomination of treasurer in the Democratic primary May [illegible] in spite of the fact that his duties confine him to the office to care for the public business is putting up a lively fight for the nomination. All over the county his friends are plugging for him. He is regarded as a formidable candidate.

E G JONES

Democratic Candidate for the Nomination of Treasurer

E G or Glenn Jones is well liked by every one. His quiet unassuming manner and his frank straightforward way of doing business with the public in the treasurer's office—this and his exceptional ability and fitness for the office have combined to make him very popular not only in the city of Marion but throughout the county as well.

For the past three years Mr Jones has held the responsible position of deputy under County Treasurer W C Wotring and during that time he has demonstrated his painstaking carefulness and competency. By his pleasing address and courteous treatment of those who have had business at the county treasurer's office he has made many warm friends who are exerting every effort to bring about his nomination.

Before coming to Marion with Treasurer Wotring as the latter's chief deputy Mr Jones was employed as a bookkeeper by Mr Wotring in the lumber business at Prospect.

If nominated for the office the Democrats who support him say [illegible] Glenn Jones will be a hard candidate for the Republicans to beat—a candidate in fact his friends claim that will come closer to polling the solid Democratic vote of the county in the fall election than any other aspirant for the office [illegible].

HOPELESS STRUGGLE COMES TO AN END

Death Calls Miss Ethel Young Tuesday Night

SHE FALLS BEFORE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE

Balmy Airs of California and Texas Fail to Give Relief and She Returns to Her Home and Friends to Pass Her Remaining Days—A Most Lovable Character

A young life of charming attributes of character following a long and hopeless struggle against the remorseless ravages of the great white plague ended with the death of Miss Ethel Young aged twenty six years daughter of the late Judge Boston G Young at the home of her mother, Mrs Anna E Young of No 627 Delaware avenue Tuesday night shortly before 9 o'clock.

Gently peacefully Miss Young passed into the dreamless sleep that knows no earthly awakening to join the spirit of her beloved father, whose unexpected death a number of months ago proved such a shock to her that it was not believed she would long survive.

Miss Young graduated from the Marion high school in the class of [illegible]. She had planned to go to college but the disease which eventually caused her death had fastened itself upon her and her ambition for higher education could not be realized. In the hope of saving her life Miss Young accompanied by her mother lived for some time in California and Texas. Her life was thus prolonged several years.

Realizing that she could not get well Miss Young decided finally to return to her old home and be near her father and brother and among her life long friends and companions. Then the blow of her father's death came but she smiled through her tears even in her greatest sorrow, because she said it would not be long until she too would be with him.

Everybody who knew Ethel Young loved her and her death will be mourned deeply by hundreds. She was a member of the Tattlers club, and prominent in society until her failing health compelled her to retire from taking an active part in social affairs.

The deceased was a member of the First Presbyterian church. She is survived by her mother and one brother Hector Young.

The funeral was held from the late residence Friday afternoon at [illegible] o'clock. Rev G M Rourke officiated. The remains were interred in the Marion cemetery.

For spring suppers sliced oranges and shredded coconut put into a dish in alternate layers are very appetizing.

King Edward Rules United Kingdom Wisely and Well for Nine Years—Edward Intimately Associated with Social Life of Country—King Has Been Harassed by a Fierce Constitutional Conflict London Newspapers Appear with Mourning Borders and Turned Rules—They Eulogize King's Character to the Highest

London May 7 After a reign of but little more than nine years King Edward VII one of the greatest kings that ever sat upon the English throne has followed England's great est queen to the grave The end came at Buckingham palace after a few days illness which followed a chill contracted while the king was in specting improvements in de it Sandringham and which settled in the bronchial organs

When he came to the throne there was a natural tendency on the part of the nation to look back and wonder whether the high level which had been gradually reached and sustained in public and national li during his mother's long reign would be further maintained The nation today gives a verdict which leaves no doubt of its favorable opinion

His touching declaration when he took the oath before the privy council that he desired and intended to rule wisely as well has been made good and the genuine sorrow with which his loss is deplored is a tribute to his subjects recognition of the fact that they and the world will long remember his work for peace among the nations and the striking results he achieved therein by his tact and bonhomie

Knew Social Life of Country

Far more than his mother he was intimately associated with th social life of the country without neglect ing the immense demands made on his energy by business of state and it is not too much to say that no English king had ever a deeper hold on the affections of his subjects His loss to the nation at the moment of a serious constitutional crisis awakes the boding fears of all who have the welfare and dignity of Great Britain at heart His vast knowledge of men his singular insight into affairs and his judgment were assets which the nation could little afford to lose It may be that the burden of anxiety in this connection hastened his end As Victoria's last hours were crowd ed by the dark shadow of the South African war so King Edward in his closing days was harassed by a fierce constitutional conflict which he be queaths for solution to a young man far less acquainted than his father with matters of state

For some time before death came the king was unconscious lying in a comatose state for a considerable time He had a slight rally into consciousness between 9 and 10 o clock It is understood that the king sent for Sir Ernest Cassel ? am and chat ted with him for 10 minutes

Newspapers Turn Rules

All the London morning papers ap pear with mourning borders and turned rules All contain long edi torial eulogies of King Edward's character as a man and sovereign All agree in calling him the world's most famous peacemaker Among many the following from a Radical newspaper may be quoted as a sim ple

He will live in the memory of his subjects as one who was personally loved and admired because he re flected with strange completeness the ideals of the ordinary British citizen In all his reign he never struck a false note in appeal direct or indi rect to the body of the nation Seri ousness of purpose and delicate ap preciation of the nature of his high constitutional office were equally re markable in him

Editorial references to George V are few and brief It is recognized that his character and ambitions are almost unknown quantities It is ru mored however that he has received all the training in public affairs which it is possible to impart to an heir apparent and confidence is ex pressed that the opportunities of kingship will call forth inherited abil ities

The Times concludes its editorial by saying We have lost a great constitutional king He has left us a successor in whom we may confi dently repose trust

The king died at 11 45 but the news did not reach the public over the tickers until 1 ?0 when the th ater supper cabs were just leaving the restaurants Silence fell upon the crowds who went sorrowfully homeward London was anxious all day The sudden news of the king's grave illness came as a blow because his majesty was reported to have re turned from Biarritz in fair health All day crowds loitered about Buck ingham palace and the Mansion House in the city where the physi cians bulletins were displayed

It is a coincidence that almost the moment the king died the military guard at the palace was being chang ed Thus the soldiers being relieved had mounted the last guard for Ed ward the Peacemaker and those who succeeded them mounted the first guard for King George V

Announcements of the death were immediately transmitted to the min istry of foreign affairs and to the home office The special staff of the foreign office flashed the intelligence to the British embassies throughout the world and to the chiefs of the colonial government

A pathetic incident occurred out side the palace when the d ath of the king became known An aged wom an knelt on the wet and muddy pave ment lifted up her hands in suppli cation and prayed for the repose of the soul of the dead sovereign

The only one of the king's children who was not present at the deathbed was his daughter the Queen of Nor way who started for London last night and will arrive tomorrow The Duke of Connaught the king's broth er with his wife was also absent

Prince George Edward Albert the Prince of Wales who will succeed to the throne will be known among the crowned heads of Europe as King George V

An Eventful Life

King Edward the Seventh of the United Kingdom and Emperor of In dia one of the best known of the world's monarchs died in Bucking ham palace where he was born in 1841 in his sixty ninth year Edu cated by private tutors at Edin burg university at Oxford and Cambridge he lived a prince in the very shadow of the throne an almost uneventful life While waiting for the scepter and royal robes he had little chance to show what kingly metal was in him

The world knew him only as a jolly prince who had done nothing very good nor any great evil A notable feature of his life was his fondness for sport He had raced horses sail ed yachts shot birds played cards and gambled more or less and with more or less discretion

He might have come to the throne as Albert I starting a new line of kings but many years ago he an nounced that when he ascended the throne he would use his second name Edward and be known as King Ed ward VII in preference to King Al bert I The English people had al ways looked forward to him as King Edward VII

It was long the fond hope of Queen Victoria's heart that her son should reign under the title of Albert the name of his fath her beloved hus band But Albert is a strange name to English ears in the list of royal ti tles The prince himself desired to be called Edward The queen's min

CARTAGO SUFFERS GREATEST LOSS

Some Entire Villages Have Been Undermined.

Loss of Life and Property Is Great in Mountainous Interior—Couriers Bring First Tidings of Disaster and Say There Are No Refugees—Banana and Rubber Plantations Are Heavy Losers

Port Limon May 7—Earthquakes have devastated the interior of Costa Rica A large part of Cartago is in ruins Conservative tabulations place the number of dead at 1 800 The country to the north and northeast of San Jose has been cleaved open. Entire villages have been under mined and lost in the quake Tele graph communication between here and San Jose was lost for 24 hours As it is now only a feeble line tells the story of death in the interior

Cartago probably has suffered the greatest pecuniary loss The Temple of Justice erected by Andrew Carne gie was bent to the ground just as scores of humble huts surrounding it were razed by the earth's twisting It has been impossible to get the full truth of the loss that the interior of Costa Rica has suffered It was in the mountain country that the great est damage was done so far as lives are reckoned The first estimate of 500 dead is only a puny accounting of the disaster

The earthquake smote its blow at noon on Wednesday In the flash of an eye scores of buildings went down in Cartago The Carnegie Palace of Justice crumbled into dust The earth opened beneath it The Car men church went in much the same manner

Mountain Districts Suffer Most

In the mountain country there were scores and scores of villages and humble settlements that dropped out of sight The loss accruing from damage to banana and rubber plan tations alone is enormous The first news of the calamity was brought to San Jose by couriers from the in terior From villages to the north and northwest there came the same story of death and devastation Be tween Cartago and San Jose much the same condition prevails No ref ugees have come in There are no refugees It seems according to couriers as if death had suddenly stricken the entire country

Government tabulations from San Jose accounted from the couriers re lations place the number of dead at 1 800 Probably it will run more than this number Details are unat tainable here Attempts to get the names of towns destroyed were fu tile

COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL PLAN GOOD

Dr. Probst of the State Board of Health

IS GREATLY PLEASED OVER THE PROPOSITION

Says That Many Lives Have Been Saved by County Hospitals Similar to That To Be Erected in This County—Doctor Will Come to Marion This Week.

Dr C. O. Probst, secretary of the state board of health, will be in Marion some time this week to view the proposed site for the erection of a tuberculosis hospital on the infirmary farm, east of the city.

Dr. Probst was much impressed with the location of the hospital buildings as described to him by Infirmary Superintendent Samuel Bader and Infirmary Director George Weidenmire last week. The buildings will be erected in the little grove several feet south of the road from the infirmary.

With the exception of the dining and sitting-rooms, all the rooms of the proposed hospital will be open in order that the patients may sleep in the open air as much as possible. Superintendent Bader is now preparing the plans for the approval of Dr. Probst, when he arrives here this week.

Commissioner William H. Holverstott favors the plan of building a tuberculosis hospital in some adjoining county, the hospital to be owned by three counties. Superintendent Bader is not in favor of the plan, however, and the secretary of the state health board is also opposed to it.

"Dr. Probst says that every county ought to own its own tuberculosis hospital," said Mr. Bader, Monday. "He says that many people are being cared of the terrible disease in the counties where there are hospitals of this kind, and he is much pleased over the fact that Marion county is taking steps to car for its victims of the great white plague."

MAKING A START ON TRACTION PLANS

Interurban Project to Mt. Gilead Is Given a Boost.

Marion sent a delegation to the interurban boosting meeting at Mt. Gilead, Friday, and ended up in being very conspicuous in the work of promoting the projected lines from Marion to Mt. Vernon and Mt. Gilead to Mansfield and Delaware. The delegation consisted of James E. Phillips, G. B. Christian, C. S. Lippincott, Fred E. Guthery, W. B. Denman and W. G. Harding.

The Mt. Gilead meeting was a notably enthusiastic one, and largely attended. Many cities and villages on the proposed lines were represented, reported marked interest and encouraging progress in raising funds. Marion made the only report showing a complete subscription of the allotted assessment to the preliminary expense fund. Enough funds were reported, however, to justify contracting for the engineer's analytical survey and report, which will determine whether the project is feasible and can be financed.

A permanent executive committee was appointed, consisting of representatives from each contributing community. James E. Phillips and Fred E. Guthery represent Marion on this committee, and Mr. Phillips was honored with the chairmanship

At the close of the general meeting, the executive committee negotiated a contract and closed it with The General Traction Development company, of Cleveland, for the survey and expert report on the proposed lines. Five thousand dollars is to be expended in this report, for which Marion pays one-tenth. The expert report will be made by the engineering firm of Roberts & Abbott, of Cleveland.

MARTEL ITALIAN IS SENT BACK TO ITALY

Two Men in Trouble for Getting Him into Country.

Accused of aiding unqualified Italians to enter the country, Antonio Doyno, banker and steamship agent, 1137 Orange avenue, S E, Cleveland and his brother, Victor Doyno, of Newcastle, Pa., were arrested by United States District Attorney Day, yesterday, at Cleveland

The men surrendered themselves at the federal building, knowing they were wanted and each was placed under $500 bail They are held for the grand jury

The action is the result of an investigation made by Immigration Inspector George Cullen. He alleges that Emmanuele Celura, who arrived in Boston from Italy early this year, was admitted wrongfully because of an affidavit that his son, living in Martel, Ohio, had a certain amount of property.

Cullen declares the son did not have the required amount and that the two men arrested helped accomplish the alien's admission.

Celura has been sent back to Italy.—Galion Leader

MISS MARY HARRIMAN, C. C RUMSEY, R. W. GOELET AND THE HARRIMAN HOME

New York, May 7 - Miss Mary H[arriman], eldest of the two children of the late E. H. Harriman, is engaged to be married to Charles Cary Rumsey, son of Laurence D. Rumsey, of Buffalo. The engagement is the result of a romance between the capable daughter of the great financier and a young sculptor of promise. Mr. Rumsey is the son of a successful business man, but has given all his attention to art. He has for some years spent most of his time in this city working at sculpture and has been seen little ever by his friend at the Knickerbocker club. Nearly all his time was spent in a little studio at the top of an old-fashioned building at No. 55 east Fifty-Ninth street, between Park and Madison avenues. He first met Miss Harriman four years ago at the Meadowbrook club races. Later he undertook some work at Mr. Harriman's new house at Arden. Miss Harriman was her father's confident in many of his business affairs, and was trained especially to understand the management of the estate at Arden. Mr Harriman's confidence in her judgment was so great that he made her one of the executors of his great estate. She has been in active charge of the Arden farms dairy and the 1,000 acres of the Harriman Orange county farms. Mr Rumsey is thirty years old and was graduated from Harvard in 1902. He spent several years in the study of art in Boston and Paris and afterwards settled down in this city. He is known in art circles, although he has not exhibited very much of his work. He had a bronze statue of an Indian at the Pan-American exhibition at Buffalo and later held an exhibition of his bronze work there. He is a good polo player and has hunted with the Genesee valley pack. In his love for horses he follows his uncle, Sward Cary who for a number of years drove the Red Jacket coach between Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Society has been confident that Miss Harriman would marry Robert W. Goelet. Young Goelet was the choice of Mr. Harriman, according to reports, as the king of the railroad world always took him on his tours throughout the country.

THREE TIMES THE SIZE OF PRESENT DUPLICATE

Will Be the New Tax Duplicate of the City

SO STATES ONE OF APPRAISING BOARD

The Duplicate, So the Figures Indicate, Will Run from $19,000,000 to $21,000,000—Board Must Have More Clerical Assistance To Finish Work on Time.

Although it has been the policy of the members of the Marion board of real estate appraisers not to give out any figures as to the quadrennial appraisement Member Thomas J Lucas states that the city tax duplicate will be nearly three times as large as the present one making it as large if not larger than the present duplicate for the entire county

"When we finish our work in July or finish it the best we can by that time said Mr Lucas we expect to turn over figures that will make the tax duplicate of the city of Marion anywhere from $19,000,000 to $21,000,000 We are appraising at the full value

Because of the failure of the legislature so far to provide for an extension of time in which to complete the work of the quadrennial appraisers in cities the Marion board is now casting about for additional clerks

"We expect to hire three and possibly four more clerks declared Mr Lucas We've got to have them in order to finish our work in any decent shape by the time the law specifies that we shall complete the work

E L Doty of Cleveland an expert has been assisting the board for several weeks in fixing the valuation of factories and business blocks while Charles Harriman and J M Davidson have been employed as assistant clerks The work of the last two has been confined largely to the office More clerks are needed, because the board will have a month's work in the office tabulating its figures after completing the big task of appraising all the property in the city

Scattered over this vast ranch are 100 outlying ... each of which has charge of a certain portion of the estate The cowpunchers line runners shepherds and hunters numbered 000 mounted men last year and the total number of employees exceeds 10,000

The Terrazas ranch is the only one in the world which maintains its own slaughtering and packing plant Last year 00,000 head of cattle and 1 0,000 head of sheep were dressed and packed 10,000 head of horses were sold 100,000 tons of hay and stock ... season and 00,000 bushels of various grain have ...

It is said that no paper in Mexico city has ever published a picture of a member of the family Guests are welcome to bring cameras but they are not expected to use them near the Terrazas home or to include in their pictures any member of the family

Although the richest man in Mexico Don Luis personally superintends the work on his huge estate He is handsome highly educated and with his family has travelled all over the world His children will all have been educated in the United States The home of the family called Chihuahua castle is surrounded by magnificent gardens When Don Luis is away one of his sons or perhaps a daughter takes his place

A PAYING CHICKEN FARM IN FLORIDA

Where Hens Are Made To Earn Six Dollars a Year

OWNED BY A WOMAN WHO SPECIALIZES

Most of Eggs and Dressed Fowls Are Sold to a Large Hotel—Business Is Not Without Handicaps—Vermin and Snakes Are Worst Pests—Climate Makes a Difference

For the last four years I have earned my pin money out of chickens said a woman ... who six years ago went to Florida for her health My hens give me a profit of more than six dollars a head

You think that an enormous yield for chickens So did I for I had been raising a few hens ... since I was a small girl ... my account book and so I know what I spend and what I take in

My chickens are Rhode Island Reds and bred from the best layers I have found that there is more in the strain than in the breed of chickens I carried my chickens with me when I went to Florida so I knew all about them for generations

Years ago I sold all my other breeds keeping only the Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds because I had proved to my satisfaction that these two breeds gave most eggs in the winter when eggs are scarce and fetch the highest prices I finally discarded the Plymouth Rocks because I found the Rhode Island is hardier and lighter feeders or perhaps I should say better foragers

This characteristic of theirs being good foragers has had a good deal to do with my large profits in Florida I never have to give my flock meat They find insects enough for their own meat supply Since the first season down there I have never given them bit of meat except the few morsels that are mixed in the table scraps which they have regularly every day

In Florida I have not raised my own feed but have bought it in small quantities at the regular retail prices I have been forced to hire all labor done such as building and repairing houses coops and fences At my home in Massachusetts being then a comparatively strong woman I was able to do all such things myself and yet my chickens never netted me more than $1.0 a head all the years that I struggled with them

There in the winter the birds had to be housed and supplied with green and meat food besides their regular rations of grain In Florida they run in the yards all the year round and get their green food from the small patch of grain which I keep for them at the ... of their yards and their own meat by catching insects

Northern friends who have come to visit me ask if there is not a difference in the prices which I now receive for my chickens and those I sold while in Massachusetts I am forced to reply that I formerly received somewhat higher prices than are paid in Florida Most of my eggs and dressed fowls are bought by the large hotel and though it is run by a Northern manager he expects and gets Southern prices All that the hotel does not take is readily sold to private families ... I never have the ... of shipping

I do not think any other breed would do as well as my Rhode Island Reds I let my hens sit on their own eggs ... and this best in ... When hens have ... from ... never allow ... once ... necessary ... equally good mothers and while there is a good demand for fresh eggs

CROP AND STOCK CONDITIONS GOOD

Nothing in the Story That All Fruit Is Killed

NOR IS THE BERRY CROP WIPED OUT

It Is Estimated That the Berry Crop in the Lake Regions Will Be Fully as Large If It Does Not Exceed That of a Year Ago—The Grain Outlook Is Good

The following is the official report of the Ohio department of agriculture on the condition of crops and live stock May 1 1910

Wheat condition compared with standard average, eighty five per cent

Oats area for 1909 as returned by township assessors 1 3 16 acres area sown this year compared with 1909 ninety eight per cent estimated area for the harvest of 1910 1 ... acres

Spring barley area sown compared with last year ninety two per cent winter barley condition compared with standard average eighty eight per cent total area sown last fall twenty six per cent sown this spring seventy four per cent

Rye condition compared with standard average ninety per cent

Clover average date of seeding March 20 acreage sown compared with last year ninety eight per cent

Fruit prospect compared with normal yield fifty four per cent

Berries prospect compared with normal yield sixty eight per cent

Live stock losses during winter and spring horses two per cent cattle one per cent sheep three per cent hogs two per cent

Notwithstanding that during a greater part of the past month weather conditions were most unfavorable to wheat growth its condition has advanced two per cent since the last report being now estimated at eighty five per cent compared with a standard average On the corresponding date one year ago its condition was estimated at sixty six per cent The present harvest should exceed that of 1909 Damage reported by insect pests is immaterial

The area seeded to oats is estimated at 1 66.. acres In comparison with the 1909 area as reported by the township assessors this is a decline of 2 344 acres

Condition of rye is estimated at ninety per cent compared with an average

Berry prospects reported at sixty eight per cent compared with normal yield

During the winter and spring months no unusual losses occurred among the live stock

Reports during the past month of the entire destruction of fruit by frost now appear to have been greatly exaggerated as our correspondents estimate the state average prospect as compared with a normal yield at fifty four per cent While this is a material decline from the prospect of one month ago due consideration must be given to the low estimates reported from sections where the fruit industry is of minor importance and the bright prospects reported from the counties of the fruit belts The greatest damage by frost occurred in the central southwestern counties while along the heavy producing lake counties the prospect is bright for a bountiful harvest Hon William Miller a recognized fruit authority is sponsor for the claim that in the lake regions the yield will equal if not exceed the normal production This statement was made after a careful and thorough personal observation In many sections where first reports were most discouraging the fruit had not attained sufficient development to be affected by frost hence the more encouraging prospect now reported

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are they would all have one I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends and they were astonished They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove and that it heated a room just like any other stove I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking Now—she knows

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove means to you? No more coal to carry no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot kettle or oven But the room isn't heated There is no smoke no smell no outside heat no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used

Cautionary Note Be sure you get this stove—see that the name plate reads New Perfection

New Perfection WICK BLUE FLAME Oil Cook-stove

It has a Cabinet Top with a shelf for keeping plates and food hot The nickel finish with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

THE BEST VIEWS OF THE FAMOUS COMET

Simple Instructions for Locating It and the Best Time To See It—Remember the Early Evening of May 18—Eclipse Billed for May 23 Morning and Evening Stars

It is seldom that so much of interest to the amateur astronomer happens in a single month as in the one which is just before us

First and foremost of course is the return of Halley's comet to a position where it can be seen to the best advantage Early in the month it is favorably placed for observation before daybreak in the east It passes directly between us and the sun and then it appears to even greater advantage in the evening sky

At the beginning of May the comet is about 1 000 000 miles away but it approaches us rapidly its distance diminishing to 14 000 000 miles on the 10th and 7 000 000 on the 14th As it was about at the limit of visibility to the naked eye in April while still [illegible] 000 000 miles from us it is now a fairly conspicuous object

The planet Venus a brilliant evening star serves as an excellent pointer to the comet Anyone however little familiar with the heavens can easily find it by observing the following directions

Choose a window from which the east in sky is visible clear down to the horizon Rise about [illegible] a m and look due east The very bright starlike object low down in the sky is Venus The comet is to the left of this and on the 14th the comet will be on a level with it On the 16th it will be much lower than the planet and [illegible] At [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the morning twilight

It will [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] bright night [illegible] us [illegible] the head [illegible] north the [illegible] be obtainable [illegible] 17th and 18th [illegible] upward and to the right [illegible] horizon perhaps [illegible] [illegible] from end of it will [illegible] than the head

On the evening of the 18th or morning of the 19th [illegible] the orbit [illegible] pass between [illegible] the earth will [illegible] enveloped in it the latter [illegible] long enough over 1 000 000 miles

If the evening is clear it will be of great interest and importance to look for illumination of the sky the early evening [illegible] comet [illegible] [illegible] but [illegible] [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] comet light there will be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] separated [illegible] in [illegible] [illegible] are in the darker part of the tail Meanwhile observers on the opposite side of our planet will have the rare privilege of [illegible] through the comet's head Only the extreme western part of the United States [illegible] [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] but is [illegible]

[illegible] the sun's disk [illegible] [illegible] standard time [illegible] on [illegible] the transit will be visible [illegible] [illegible] the comet [illegible] almost [illegible] the center of the sun from [illegible]

[illegible] it may [illegible] that the ordinary observer even with a small telescope [illegible] will not be able to [illegible] the slightest trace of the comet [illegible] With powerful instrument [illegible] be seen as a black speck [illegible] sun if it is over fifty miles in diameter but it is improbable that anything like [illegible] the whole amount of light [illegible] [illegible]

It is [illegible] that the [illegible] composing the envelopes of the head and the tail may [illegible] [illegible] scope and [illegible] through the [illegible] lengthwise nearly 1 000 000 miles of it will be [illegible] to exert any [illegible] able effect on the sun's light [illegible] surprising to many astronomers [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] is detected

[illegible] be scientifically valuable [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the comet [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] mass or density

Transits [illegible] across the sun are very rare The most remarkable previous [illegible] is that of the great comet of 18[illegible] which though [illegible] bright that [illegible] [illegible] be seen close to the sun [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] completely [illegible] transparent

On the evening of the 19th we may perhaps [illegible] the comet's tail in the evening [illegible] though its [illegible] [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] still [illegible] strong On [illegible] however it will [illegible] [illegible] 9 p m [illegible] and on the [illegible] [illegible] afterward [illegible] [illegible] 11 p m

On [illegible] the comet's head will be [illegible] [illegible] Geminorum on the [illegible] [illegible] Procyon [illegible] [illegible] the Hydra

[illegible] notable for [illegible] [illegible] the sun on the [illegible] [illegible] former [illegible] [illegible] maximum [illegible] of the total [illegible] [illegible] minute but unfortunately [illegible] the shadow [illegible] the southern [illegible] the south [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] visible through [illegible] Gunner and the [illegible]

The lunar [illegible] of the 23rd is of more interest [illegible] being visible throughout the United States [illegible] [illegible] The moon enters the [illegible] at [illegible] first touches the shadow at [illegible] At nine minutes [illegible] disappears in it [illegible] not emerge [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] is only [illegible] miles [illegible] shadow, so that it will [illegible] [illegible] illuminated by sunlight [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] number This [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] to observers on the [illegible] [illegible] will give them [illegible] to photograph Halley's comet on [illegible] dark sky The comet will [illegible] [illegible] us in the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Heavens

With so much [illegible] to [illegible] our attention [illegible] [illegible] must be [illegible] [illegible] prominent constellations [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Gemini and Canis Minor [illegible] the northwest Auriga due north Cassiopeia below the Pole Ursa Minor and Draco [illegible] and the [illegible] almost overhead In the northeast Lyra is prominent and in the east Hercules Corona and Bootes [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in the southern [illegible] [illegible] is Virgo

[illegible] [illegible] the bright star [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Jupiter [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with a small [illegible] but in 18[illegible] could hardly be seen double with the largest instruments then existing The two components were then at the least point of the very eccentric orbit in which they revolve about one another in some 180 years

The Planets

Mercury is evening star until the [illegible] when he passes through inferior conjunction between us and the sun and becomes a morning star He may be best seen at the beginning of the month when he sets more than 1[illegible] hours later than the sun At this time he is in [illegible] between Aldebaran and the Pleiades and should be easy to see

Venus is morning star rising a little after [illegible] a m and exceedingly conspicuous all through the month Mars is evening star in Gemini setting about 10 [illegible] p m in the middle of the month at which time he is quite close to the star [illegible] Geminorum

Jupiter is well past opposition but is visible most of the night remaining in sight till nearly [illegible] a m on the 1st and till a little before [illegible] a m on the 31st

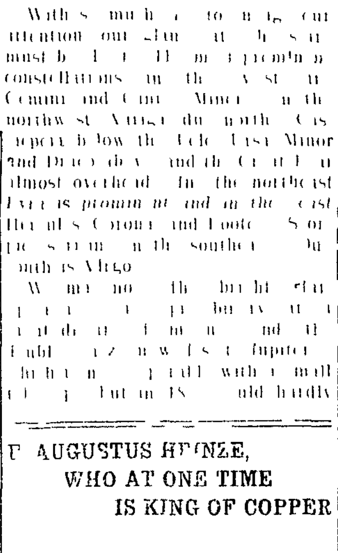

Saturn is morning star in Aries rising about an hour earlier than the sun in the middle of the month and two hours at its end but it is not yet conspicuous

Uranus is in Sagittarius and comes to the meridian at [illegible] a m on the 15th Neptune is in Gemini observable [illegible] of the night On [illegible] [illegible] in conjunction with Mars being [illegible] degree fifty nine minutes south of the latter This may be a good chance for amateurs with telescopes of sufficient size to pick up the faint greenish disk of the planet

The moon is in her last quarter at [illegible] [illegible] on the 2nd and [illegible] at midnight on the 8th [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] on the [illegible] the [illegible] full during eclipse on the night of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] on the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] on the 8th and farther [illegible] the 31st

DESCRIBES HIS RAPID DESCENT

Aeronaut Forbes Not Seriously Hurt in Accident

WHEN HE TRIES TO BREAK THE RECORDS

Made by Count Delavaux and Colonel Schreick.

His Companion, J. C. Yates, New York Clubman and Amateur Astronomer, Seeks Better View of Halley's Comet from High Point in Clouds and Professes To Have Attained Desired End.

Horse Cave, Ky., May 12. A. Holland Forbes, who won the Lahm cup at the St. Louis balloon races in 1909, and James H. Yates, amateur astronomer and wealthy clubman of New York, were found in the log cabin of Joseph Bastin, a Green county farmer. They were sadly battered, wrenched and bruised, but not seriously injured as a result of their sudden descent from the clouds.

Mr. Forbes said he wanted to break the record held by Count Delavaux, who covered a distance of 1,352 miles in 1909 and that of Colonel Schreick, who in 1899 remained in the air 72 hours.

His companion had another purpose. Mr Yates is wealthy, and has a liking for astronomy. The ascent from Quincy was his initial experience in aeronautics. He had with him a telescope and photographic apparatus, and his chief desire was to learn something new about Halley's comet. While he does not claim to have learned any of the family secrets of the wanderer, Mr. Yates believes he secured some remarkable pictures taken at a height of about 18,000 feet.

Forbes Tells Story.

After describing the ascent from Quincy, Ill., Monday evening, and the zigzag aerial path pursued by the balloon, in which the Mississippi and Missouri rivers were crossed, until an easterly current was struck, which carried them to the spot where they made a sudden landing, Mr. Forbes told the following story of the accident:

"In descending we had very little sand left, and as the gas contracted the balloon bag became extremely flabby. Everything, however, went well until we were a few hundred feet above the ground, when the appendix line broke loose from the ring supporting the basket. There was so little gas in the bag at the time that the rigging collapsed and, with the basket attached, naturally dropped. This caused the rip cord, which is attached to the ring, to rip open the balloon at the height of 300 feet from the ground. I can not describe the sensation of that 300 feet to the ground. It came so suddenly.

"I have a faint recollection of seeing men below me in a plowed field and subconsciously trying, it seemed, to tilt up the basket that Mr. Yates and I might spring free from the rigging when close to the ground. Because the basket did not tilt as it would have done under ordinary circumstances, was the cause of our injury.

Stunned For Moment.

"For a moment I was stunned by the impact, when I awakened and saw two or three men coming to our aid. They extricated us and on improvised litters we were carried to this house. I tell you we were so badly shaken up we could not move."

Yates did not have much to say about the new experience. He declared he was yet in a condition of wonderment. "This is not going to be my last ride, however," he affirmed. "I certainly got a fine view of the comet about 2 45 o'clock."

Now Believes in Dreams.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 12. Mrs Julia Livingstone Forbes, wife of A. Holland Forbes the aeronaut, told a remarkable story of receiving a premonition of her husband's disaster in Kentucky. "I experienced the most horrible nightmare," said Mrs. Forbes. "I could see my husband and Mr. Yates in the car of their balloon as if they were in great distress. They called for assistance, and I seemed to be powerless to help them. I felt that they were adrift without food or drink, unable to reach the ground or to get help from any source. They seemed to rise through the clouds out of sight, then to reappear, and their cries were borne to my ears with the most frightful realism. Then they seemed to drop suddenly. I could see their balloon burst and their dash toward the earth. They were just about to strike when I awoke. My screams aroused the household, and though my maid rushed into my bedroom I could not be made to believe for several minutes that it was all an awful dream."

Mrs. Forbes sent a servant for a morning paper and when she read the headlines that made her dream a reality she swooned. Later she received a telegram from her husband stating that he had landed in Kentucky and would be home Tuesday.

Extremely smart are the Tussore motor coats with deep, low, fastened revers of foulard that form in reality a continuation of the lining.

In many cases belts are handsomely braided or gorgeously embroidered to match the collar or repeat some color scheme of the rest of the suit.

Collarless necks are a feature of many of the very modish little summer dresses, whether of pongee, foulard, marquisette lingerie fabrics or of linen.

Colors are numerous, and vary from tapestry blue to printed silks, which include foulards and cashmere designs in many different tones on a single ground.

GUELPH CLAIMS ENGLISH THRONE

Brooklyn Man Announces That He Is Son of King Edward.

New York, May 12 -"I knew for some time that father was going to die," said Prince John, otherwise John G. F. W. Guelph, as he posed for his photograph in a Brooklyn boarding house. "Yes, I was afraid he was doing too much. Poor father! I wish he could have lived longer. I am sure I could have convinced him of his errors in not acknowledging me as his son and heir."

When the news of the death of King Edward reached New York Guelph came out from his Brooklyn boarding house recent and announced once more that he was the son of the dead monarch and heir to the British throne. Maybe he is. He looks more like an Indiana preacher. But Prince John does not favor the actions of ministers. He is sure they are far too dignified when it comes to a man taking a glass of spirits.

Within the next fortnight Prince John declares he will sail for England and present such overpowering evidence to King George that he will be taken into the British household.

Bishop Coadjutor Grimes Makes the Charge

THAT AMBASSADOR WITHHOLDS FACTS

Concerning Vatican's Refusal To See Roosevelt.

The Statement Causes Widespread Comment—Bishop Demands on Part of 12,000,000 American Catholics, That Leishman Be Recalled or Forced To Explain His Alleged Act.

Syracuse N. Y., May 9.—The charge that American Ambassador Leishman in Rome, withheld from the public vital facts concerning the Vatican's refusal to receive Colonel Roosevelt made here in the cathedral yesterday by Coadjutor Grimes, has caused widespread comment today. The bishop demanded on the part of American Catholics that Leishman be forced to explain or be recalled.

Bishop Grimes declared that Colonel Roosevelt made a mistake in asking Leishman to arrange the interview, for Leishman has no official connection at the Vatican, and has posted in his office a notice that he will make no arrangements for audiences with the Pope.

Nevertheless Leishman took up with Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American college, the question of Roosevelt's reception by the Pope, who agreed to grant an audience on April 5. The Pope, Bishop Grimes declares, told Leishman he hoped nothing would arise to prevent the audience, such as the much regretted incident that made impossible Mr Fairbanks' presentation.

Part of Message.

Bishop Grimes charged that Leishman in making public this much of his cablegram withheld the second portion of the message which, according to Bishop Grimes, was as follows:

"I merely transmitted his (Monsignor Kennedy's) communication without having committed you in any way to accept conditions imposed as the form [illegible] objectionable, clearly indicating that an audience would be cancelled in case you should take any action [illegible] here that might be construed as countenancing the Methodist mission work here, as in the case of Mr Fairbanks.

"[illegible] fully aware of your intention [illegible] your visit to the king and Pope, the covert threat of the Vatican communication to you is [illegible] objectionable and [illegible] other is sure to make capital of any action you may take. [illegible] is preparing for [illegible].

"This [illegible] from Leishman to Roosevelt [illegible] so worded, Bishop Grimes [illegible], as to force Colonel Roosevelt to refuse to visit the Pope. Had [illegible] for the message, Bishop [illegible] thinks Colonel Roosevelt would have visited the Pope.

Minister Makes No Effort To Defend Himself.

Dr. Wilson, of Savannah, Is Badly Injured, Many Blows Landing on His Face—He Immediately Resigns as Pastor of His Church and Resignation Is Accepted—Sympathy Seems To Be with Girl.

Savannah Ga., May 11.- Charging that her daughter had been wronged by him, Mrs. C. H. Monsees soundly cowhided Rev. Dr. J. H. Wilson, rector of the Church of the Ascension at the door of his study in the church building. Mrs. Monsees was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Meta.

"Here is the child you wronged," said the mother, and then she began to belabor the clergyman with a cowhide. Mrs. Monsees plied the whip until, becoming exhausted, she swooned. Miss Meta then seized the cowhide and began to thrash the rector. Dr. Wilson made no effort to defend himself, merely saying "I will not resist you."

Dr. Wilson was badly injured, many of the blows landing on his face and cutting it to pieces. Immediately after being cowhided Dr. Wilson resigned as pastor of the church, and it was accepted. The Monsees family stands high here and Dr. Wilson has been popular. Miss Meta Monsees is a beautiful girl, 19 years old. She took great interest in church work and was thrown much in the company of Dr Wilson. Two days ago the girl confessed to her mother that Dr. Wilson had taken advantage of her and the cowhiding followed. Dr. Wilson refuses to make a statement in regard to the girl's charge. Sympathy is with the girl, and there is a bitter feeling against the rector.

EARTHQUAKE AGAIN FELT

Shock Throughout Costa Rica Adds Terror

TO SURVIVORS OF STRICKEN CITIES

Quake Victims Are Robbed and Homes Wrecked.

Volcanoes of Peas and Erazu Are Also in Eruption and Volcano Dust Is Rapidly Settling Over Most of Country—Many People Have Died During Past Three Days—Martial Law Enforced.

San Jose, May 11.—Slight earthquake shocks were again felt throughout Costa Rica today, adding to the terror of the survivors of the stricken city of Cartago and others of the Paraiso district. The volcanoes of Peas and Erazu are also in eruption. Volcano dust is rapidly settling over most of the country while pestilence reigns in the camps established for the survivors of the quake.

Many have died during the last three days and new camps are to be established in hope of escaping the disease.

One of the most peculiar features connected with the quake last week was the great number of babies born during the time the earth was rocking and demolishing Cartago. It attracted the attention of President Jiminez and he appointed an accouchement squad for all refugee camps.

Martial law is still enforced throughout the republic. In spite of this, however, many quake victims have been robbed and their wrecked homes looted. Orders have been issued to shoot down any one found engaged in this work.

SESSION IS NOW ONLY A MEMORY

Legislators Round Out Program and Depart.

LANGDON MEASURE, CROWNING EVENT

Details Are First Worked Out in Conference.

When Final Gavel Strikes of Lieutenant Governor Treadway and Speaker Mooney Registers Close, Only Thirty-Five Representatives and Fourteen Senators Are in Their Seats.

Columbus, O., May 11.—The Seventy-eighth General assembly has adjourned sine die, there being a noticeable absence of the racket and confusion which so often attends the death of a legislature. When the final gavel strikes of Lieutenant Governor Treadway and Speaker Mooney registered the close, only 35 representatives and 14 senators were in their seats.

The Langdon tax commission bill, the crowning achievement of the 20-weeks' session, lengthened the session by a full two hours. The conference report was quickly adopted, only one member of the legislature, Senator Tod, voting against it.

The final details of the bill were completed at a meeting between the conference committee and Attorney General Denman, and a report was then prepared and signed by the 10 members of the committee.

The tax raising feature of the Willis law, which is incorporated in the bill, increases the taxes on private corporations from one-tenth to three-twentieths of 1 per cent of their capital stock. The Cole tax on the gross earnings of freight line and equipment companies is raised from 1 per cent to 1½ per cent, and on express and telegraph companies the tax was decreased from 3 to 2 per cent.

These changes will add several hundred thousand dollars a year to the revenues of the state.

The governor vetoed the Bill of Representative Eubanks of Cuyahoga county, fixing a salary for members of city boards of education.

The senate refused to pass the Le Blond bill over the governor's veto, affording relief to a member of the Cincinnati Waterworks company, who was injured by an explosion of dynamite.

In the senate the appointments of Governor Harmon for membership on different boards of trustees of state institutions were concurred in.

Expect Governor's Veto.

Columbus, O., May 11. — It is believed Governor Harmon will veto the Alsdorf central board of control bill which, before it was passed, was amended by the legislature so as to apply to the two penal and two correctional institutions instead of all the 19 state institutions. In its changed form he bill retains stewards of institutions, while the governor's main idea in having the central board bill offered was to abolish these positions.

A GOOD MAN'S FOES.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for May 15 Is: "Growing Hatred to Jesus." Matthew 12:22-32, 38-42.

It came as a surprise recently to a certain reader of the daily dispatches to learn that the most conspicuous and derided politican in Washington is a close and constant reader of the religious stories of a famous Canadian author. He did not know that this politician had any such side to his nature at all. The common people are often thus surprised to discover by fuller knowledge, that public officials are not the monsters that partisan opponents have represented them as being. Likewise, they learn that reformers are not necessarily wild-eyed fanatics. For it is the bad habit of the world to speak ill of the good.

That fact nderlies the present Sunday-school lesson. Jesus had healed a man who was blind and dumb, so that he both saw and talked. Surely everybody should rejoice over such a merciful action. No so. Even as it has often been true in China that the mission hospitals are accused of stealing little children; or as in Baltimore today many colored persons refuse to pass the Johns Hopkins hospital lest it should "put the black drop" on them; so this kindly ministry of the beneficient Teacher was attributed to the devil. The Pharisees so charged openly. They could not understand the miracle, but flouting all reason they declared, "This man does not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub, the prince of devils." So there is precedent for everybody whose good is evil spoken of to take heart as comfort: Jesus all along had to endure this sort of misrepresentation and slander.

Common People See Straight.

The curious fact which has many modern analogies was that the plain, unlettered peasants understood the meaning of the ministry of Jesus better than did their ecclesiastical leaders. They cried, "Is this the son of David?" Simple hearts can sometimes see straighter and clearer than sophisticated minds. The views which men "on the inside" at Washington entertain concerning the most talked-about American of the day are radically different from those of the masses of the people. Yet the latter are probably right. They have a genius for getting at the heart of a man's purposes.

Books and articles, which the masses never read, are written in criticism of Jesus; but the multitudes, undisturbed by details and difficulties, understand Christ. They know Him for His life and His love. They catch the glint of His kindly eye, while the scholastics are studying the color of His hair. They feel the uplift of His helpful hand, while the critics are concerned only with its callouses. They are inspired by the sympathetic throb of His loving heart, while the schoolmen quibble over His scholarship. In a broad, general fashion, God had given the common people an affinity for the noblest. They have a charity and an understanding which are greater than pedantry's boasted skill.

Fighting the Best.

A good man on the wrong side is a pitiable and tragic spectacle. There is something about the attitude of the old Pharisees of Christ's time that even excites our compassion. They were so sure that they had the last word of truth, and that their ecclesiastical organization was the most important thing on earth, that they simply could not conceive of the possibility of this Revolutionist's being right. In like manner, there are many sincerely pious men connected with the religious boards and societies of our time who really believe that the kingdom of heaven is incorporated in the organizations which they serve; and so they go to amazing lengths to conserve this institution. That is one reason why we have in this month of May, 1910, so much despicable ecclesiastical politics, and so much contemptible effort to stay the progress of new methods, bigger ideas, broader purposes.

There are many reasons why one should strive for humble open-mindedness; and the most important, perhaps, is the fear of being found in opposition to the truth. No allegiance is important except allegiance to God and His truth. What matter if old notions must be given up? The truth is all-important. The wise rabbi's advice to beware lest one should be found fighting God, is ever applicable. History has frequently repeated the experience of the Pharisees who arrayed themselves against the best leader of their day, Who was indeed incarnate truth.

Patience of the Strong.

The weak and the wicked and the unwise are fussy, hurried and excited. The strong and the true may be patient, because they have the eternal years. The calmness with which Jesus answered the charge that He cast out devils by the prince of devils is in sharp contrast to the hysteria of His foes. He pointed out, in simplest, clearest reasoning, that a house divided against itself can not stand. It was as if He were teaking a lesson plain to little children.

Then He defined the eternal alignment of the forces of life. It is like a picture of a great athletic contest between two teams; or a mighty battle. On the one side are the forces of truth; on the other, the forces of error. Everybody is on one side or another. "He that is not with Me is against Me." In this supreme conflict there are no neutrals. God counts us all on His side, or against Him. To live for God here is to live with God forever. Edith H. Divall has said:

"It matters not
What men may think of us! Today they praise—
Tomorrow, blame—and so through all our days
We lift our eyes to catch the smile of one
For something said or done,
And meet another's frown.
"But let it be our chief concern to see,
Whatever we are called to do or be,
That all our lives may bear the pure high light
Which shines from yonder throne, that from His sight
No coward thought need shrink, in trembling fear,
To stand before our God with conscience clear,
And only by His standard set our own,
And live as they who seek His smile alone."

The Unpardonable Sin.

In connection with this episode Jesus uttered his puzzling words concerning "the unpardonable sin." "Therefore I say unto you, every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven. And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man it shall be forgiven him, but whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world nor that which is to come."

This utterance has troubled many tender spirits. But wise expositors have thrown real light upon it, as, for instance: "It is no sudden, angry blasphemy. Whoever fears that he has committed it and prays for pardon is worlds away from it."—W. Robertson Nicoll, LL. D. "The very fact that a man is troubled about his sins shows that the Spirit of God has not 'eft him."—D. L. Moody. But "if the faculty or organ by which a man discerns good and evil has become so perverted that it fails in its proper use, then that man's constitution is so corrupted that his moral judgment may be said to be gone. If under circumstances which bring upon a man's soul the full power of the Holy Spirit, cleansing the understanding and giving life to the conscience, he resolutely and de'iberately reviles God's truth and goodness, it is a fatal symptom."—Henry Ward Beecher.

Irreligion of Religious.

There is such a thing as being anti-religious, and the actual enemy of religion, while wearing the uniform of Christianity. These Pharisees were branded by Jesus. "O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things?" The stereotyped pious phrase, the unconscious habit of churchliness, the empty routine of devotion,—all these may co-exist with utter spiritual deadness. For, as said quaint old David Henderson, in "The Maid of Honor,"—"Religeion is the soul o' man seekin' the life o' God." Anything less vital than this will not meet the requirements of Jesus.

So He uttered his terrific philippic against the conventionally orthodox Jews of his day. Nineveh and Sheba rose up in judgment against them. The goodness of the world is sometimes a reproach to the perfunctory godliness of the church. For it is not they who name the Name, but they who do the will, to whom the Lord gives acceptance and approval.

Passes Away After an Illness of Forty-Eight Hours.

ACUTE INDIGESTION AND HEART TROUBLE

Hiram Paddock, one of the best-known citizens of Marion, died very suddenly at his home at No. 918 north Main street, at 12:30 o'clock this morning. Death resulted after an illness of only forty-eight hours, and was contributed to by indigestion and heart trouble.

Hiram Paddock was seventy-nine years of age on April 15. He was born in Essex county, New Jersey, and moved to Marion thirty-six years ago the fifst of last month. With his wife, he celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage, which occurred on the anniversary of his birth last month. However, his wife was unable to take an active part in the entertainment owing to sickness.

Notwithstanding his advanced years, Mr. Paddock apparently was in the best of health and worked at his trade as a stone cutter until his last illness. When he retired, Tuesday night, he did not complain of feeling poorly, but Wednesday morning was unable to leave his bed. Medical attention was summoned, but his condition Wednesday was not alarming. Thursday he was unconscious most of the day, and grew gradually worse until the end came.

Mrs. Paddock has been dangerously ill for some time and her death is expected most any time.

Aside from the widow, Mr. Paddock leaves four children. They are Mrs. C. C. Miller, of Tuscon, Arizona, M. L., Frank and Elba Paddock, all of Marion. All of the children were at the bedside of their father when the end came. Owing to the condition of Mrs. Paddock, the remains will be removed to the home of Frank Paddock, on east Mark street, where they may be viewed after 8 o'clock tonight.
